

Marcello BERTO – CV

Marcello Berto is a researcher at the Laboratory of Organic Electronics (Life Sciences Department, University of Modena and Reggio Emilia). His work is focused on the development of sensing platform based on organic electronic devices for health and environmental monitoring, and, in particular, on both the optimization of the fabrication protocols with different organic semiconductive materials, and on the thermodynamic biological features of the bio-recognition.