

Jacopo Fracassi

The speech will discuss the role of blockchain and metaverse in the future of the Web. If on one side the metaverse will change how we interact online, blockchain technology could play a crucial role in its development. This technology could in fact allow secure and transparent transactions, decentralized ownership of digital assets, increased trust and security, and new possibilities for economic activity.