

Antonio POLITANO – CV

Antonio Politano, born in 1981, is an associate professor of Experimental Condensed Matter Physics at the University of L'Aquila. His previous research experiences span Italian Institute of Technology in Genoa, Autonomous University of Madrid, Imdea Nanoscience in Madrid, and Elettra Synchrotron. With a PhD in Physics, he co-authored around 250 papers and a patent, with a H-index of 44. About 85% of his publications are in top quartile journals. He is principal investigator of 5 ongoing projects and he chaired 4 conferences. He evaluates research projects for 11 international agencies.