

Gian Marco REVEL-CV

Gian Marco Revel is full professor of Mechanical and Thermal Measurements at Università Politecnica delle Marche, where he also holds the role of Deputy Rector for European Research. For years he has been involved in research in the sector of measurement systems and advanced sensors for home automation, energy, acoustic applications, non-destructive testing and the management of production processes. Author of over 200 publications and co-inventor of international and national patents, he is responsible for over 10 projects in Horizon 2020 and 5 projects in Horizon Europe. Coordinator of the Materials & Sustainability Committee of the European Construction Technology Platform, he has been Rapporteur for the European Commission within the SET-Plan (Strategic Energy Technology Plan).